

My name is Ronnaphee Nushsiri. My nickname is Dew. I was born on December 12, 1993 in Bangkok Province, Thailand. He received his Bachelor's Degree in Industrial electrical form Tammasat University in Thailand. Now I am an electrical engineer in beverage Industrial.

I have been spending a lot of time to learn mathematics and basic computer program, which really taught me the importance of reasonable person and very useful in my job. In my free time, I like to read psychology book that taught me how to understand people and handle stress, then it will make me to be optimistic and watching America movies, which I love this culture and learn what American people think different Asia people.

In 2014, I was an engineer student, I knew IPOPI organization from my doctor from Siriraj hospital. I decided to join in the of the ThaiPOPI. I have been meeting with ThaiPOPI to learn and understand purpose. Because I would like to someone understand PID patients and we can share lifestyle knowledge together. It will lead widespread around Thailand. The main purposes are support AAIAT (The Allergy, Asthma and Immunology Association of Thailand) and advise a hospital where should you see the doctor that wonder you are PID patient.