

Dr Dharmagat Bhattarai

Dr Dharmagat Bhattarai (MBBS, MD, DM, and FESID) stands as the first and to-date only immunologist in Nepal. As a trailblazing figure in the realm of clinical immunology in the Himalayan Nation, Nepal, he is the man behind all the efforts of awareness, diagnosis, and groundbreaking therapeutics of immune diseases in Nepal, etching an indelible mark on the field. His academic journey spans across India and the United States.

Dr Bhattarai has contributed to over 50 peer-reviewed international journal publications and more than 7 book chapters. He assumes a pivotal role as the scientific leader of the Workforce and Health System Performance (WAHSP) at IPALA, while simultaneously representing Nepal on the international stage as the scientific representative of ESID, APSID, and HAE. With his invaluable experience with his unwavering passion for the transformation of human lives, Dr Dharmagat Bhattarai stands as an exemplar of excellence, leaving an enduring legacy in the pursuit of advancing care, academics, and research in the field of immunology.