

Dr Nesrine Radwan

Dr Nesrine Radwan, associate professor of Pediatrics, Allergy, Immunology and Rheumatology Unit, in Ain Shams University, Immunology consultant at CCHE-57357 and currently a board member of the ASID and ARPIDS. She graduated from the faculty of Medicine in 2004 and finished my master's degree in Pediatrics in 2009 and MD in 2015.

Dr Radwan joined the Pediatric Allergy, Immunology and Rheumatology unit in Ain Shams University, in 2010. She had training in the Immunology department and lab in GOSH, London, UK and in bone marrow transplantation unit in GNCH, Newcastle, UK. Since then, she supervised more than 10 theses either in master's degree or MD degree in Pediatric Immunology. Her main interest in Inborn errors of Immunity and shared in different awareness campaigns and workshops for the disease in Egypt. I am a co-founder of the Egyptian Patient organisation for Primary Immunodeficiency (Nada).